Clinical Assistant Professor of Social Work, Field Placement Coordinator

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte School of Social Work invites applications for a Clinical Assistant Professor position. This candidate will also serve as Field Placement Coordinator. This position is a full-time, 9-month appointment with an anticipated start date of August 13, 2018.

Field education is the signature pedagogy for social work. The intent of field education is to integrate the theoretical and conceptual contribution of the classroom with the practical world of the practice setting. We welcome candidates with experience in social work practice and supervision, teaching in higher education, and program administration and a commitment to a collaborative relationship between field agencies and social work education. High priority experience and scholarship needs are curriculum development and accreditation assessment and integrative behavioral health, but candidates with scholarship expertise in other areas are also strongly encouraged to apply. This position will have teaching practice courses and advising responsibilities for BSW and MSW programs, scholarship of practice expectations, and will provide administrative oversight and support to students in field, field instructors, and field liaisons. All faculty members provide service to the University, community, and profession.

Qualifications: Candidates must possess a master’s degree in social work from a CSWE-accredited program and have at least two years post-master’s social work degree practice experience. A doctorate in social work or a related field are also welcomed. Candidates should demonstrate ability to contribute to diversity initiatives as articulated in the School’s mission as well.

About the University and School: The University of North Carolina at Charlotte is North Carolina’s urban research university. It leverages its location in the state’s largest city to offer internationally competitive programs of research and creative activity, exemplary undergraduate, graduate, and professional programs, and a focused set of community engagement initiatives. UNC Charlotte is North Carolina’s urban research university, with over 29,000 students, which includes over 5,000 graduate students. The School of Social Work has dynamic BSW and MSW programs. Both academic offerings have increasingly gained national recognition. At the same time, we have recruited a diverse faculty and student body.
